Where next for Climate Camp?

COP15 Failed. Now it's up to us.

World "leaders" failed to reach any meaningful climate agreement in Copenhagen. Meanwhile, climate change is already affecting millions of people around the world through extreme weather events, flooding and the growing food crisis. It's time to take back the power.

TVCA is a local collective dedicated to taking direct action against the root causes of climate change. As part of the Climate Camp movement, we have been involved with actions locally, nationally and internationally since our inception 4 years ago. There are no leaders of our group as we organise through mutual co-operation and firmly believe that climate change cannot be solved within the current system of endless economic growth on our finite planet.

We're starting the new year by taking a critical look at where we are. And most importantly, we will plot a path ahead. What are the aims of TVCA? Have they changed? Should we be taking more national action? Or more local action? Or both? Come along and take part in working towards a climate solution.

The day will be full of stimulating and productive discussions, lunch will be provided and all will be followed with some fantastic live music and entertainment for a chance to boogie and relax after a great days work.
